PALMENHAUS

CAFE – BRASSERIE – BAR

The Palmenhaus in the garden of Vienna's imperial palace was originally planned by the court architect Friedrich Ohmann and built as the last large Orangery of the Habsburgs in 1902.

The glasshouse and the garden were intended for the sole purpose of the emperor's recreation and were opened up to the public in 1919.

Apparently, Franz Joseph I. knew how to relax!

Since 1998, the Brasserie Palmenhaus is dedicating itself entirely to fulfill its original purpose. Right in the heart of the city, this magical place offers everything from breakfast to the last cocktail of the day.

During the winter season, the 15-meter glass dome invites you to soak up the day light while enjoying food and drink. In the summer time, unwind on the spacious terrace while enjoying the magnificent view of the imperial garden. Our traditional Austrian and Mediterranean inspired kitchen, an extensive wine list and homemade pastries await you.

We are looking forward to your visit!
